GOVERNOR BESHEAR REAPPOINTS BOARD MEMBER

Governor Steven L. Beshear reappointed Edwin Glenn Birdwhistell of Lawrenceburg to the Kentucky Board of Auctioneers. His term is July 1, 2008 through June 30, 2011.

Mr. Birdwhistell has been an auctioneer since July 31, 1962 and a real estate broker since 1956. He entered the auction business at age 13 with his father, John Edwin Birdwhistell. Upon his father’s death in mid 1960’s, Glenn assumed his share of the business. Mr. Birdwhistell is President, Principal Broker and Auctioneer of Birdwhistell Realty & Auction Co. His wife is Mary Lee (Barker). Commissioner Birdwhistell’s son, Randy, has been an auctioneer with the company since 1994. Glenn has conducted livestock, real estate farm equipment, antiques personal property, tobacco auctions, and several of the state auctions for Fleet Management, Fish and Wildlife, and the Kentucky State Police. Mr. Birdwhistell is a past president of the Kentucky Auctioneers Association and has been inducted into KAA’s Hall of Fame. Glenn is a member of the National Auctioneers Association, Lexington Board of Realtors and the National Board of Realtors. He retired from the Kentucky Army National Guard in 1992 as a Chief Warrant Officer 4 and awarded the Legion of Merit.

At the August 13, 2008 Kentucky Board of Auctioneers meeting, J. Randall Bush and L. Joe Walden were elected as Chairman and Vice Chairman.

KBA DESK NOTES

ISSUE 1: This is important! An auction house operator can only contract an auction at the auction house that is specified on the Auction House Operator License. KRS Chapter 330.020 (6) defines an Auction house “… for sale at public auction at a fixed location.” If the contract auctioneer, who calls bids at an auction house, has an auction at a site other than the auction house, the auction house operator is not a party to this particular auction.

ISSUE 2: The following is an update to last year’s newsletter article on Meth Lab Cleanup. A list of contractors certified by the Environmental and Public Protection Cabinet to cleanup methamphetamine labs is now available from the cabinet’s Division of Waste Management. Certification of contractors who decontaminate meth labs located on “inhabitable properties,” excluding hotels, is a new requirement under a law passed by the 2007 General Assembly. The list and other information about the new law including a guidance document and cleanup standard, is available online at www.waste.ky.gov/branches/sf/Meth.htm or by contacting Kim Leingang in the division’s Superfund Branch at 502-564-6716, ext. 236, or Kim.Leingang@ky.gov. If you find what you suspect is a meth lab, do not move, touch or smell any container or its contents. Contact law enforcement. The KSP hotline is 1-800-222-5555. Extensive information on recognizing meth labs, how to protect yourself and who to call is online at the University of Kentucky’s Health Education through Extension Leadership site: www.ca.uky.edu/heel/Land/index.htm

Title 27 Chapter I—Bureau Of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, Department of the Treasury
Part 194—Liquor Dealers
Subpart L—Exemptions and Exceptions Persons Exempt From Liquor and Beer Dealer Special Taxes
Sec. 194.189 Agents, auctioneers, brokers, etc., acting on behalf of others. Certain persons may sell liquors as agents or employees of others, or receive and transmit orders therefor to a dealer, without being considered liquor or beer dealers on account of such activities; they are as follows:
(a) Auctioneers who merely sell liquors at auction on behalf of others,
(b) Agents or brokers who merely solicit orders for liquors in the name of a principal, but neither stock nor deliver the liquors for which orders are taken,
(c) Employees who merely sell liquors on behalf of their employers, and
(d) Retail dealers in liquors or retail dealers in beer who merely receive and transmit to a wholesale dealer orders for liquors or beer to be billed, charged, and shipped to customers by such wholesale dealers.

Such persons, who have no property rights in the liquors or beer sold, may make collections for their principals and receive commissions for their services, or guarantee the payment of accounts, without being required to pay special tax. In all such cases, however, the principal is required to pay special tax at each place where sales are consummated, unless he is exempt therefrom under the provisions of this subpart.
DISCIPLINARY ACTIONS – JANUARY 2008 THROUGH AUGUST 2008

- 5/14/08 James J. Bates, P1017  Admonishment. “Review your business practices to ensure compliance with the law, especially 201 KAR 3:045(2) which requires settlement of monies within thirty (30) days of the auction, KRS 330.110(8) and (10) and all other rules and regulations associated with auctioneering in Kentucky.”

- 5/14/08 Bobby G. Jones, P1765  Violation of KRS 330.110(11) Did not actively supervise the activities his apprentice. Written reprimand and an additional three hours of continuing education by 6/30/09.

3. The sponsoring organization, not the person making sales at the auction, is responsible for the collection, control, and disbursement of the auction proceeds.

(b) If the conditions set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection are met, the organization sponsoring the auction shall be the retailer for purposes of the sales made at the charitable auction.

Q. – I attend several auctions throughout the year held by various auctioneers. A couple of months ago an auctioneer in his opening remarks reviewed the terms, conditions, and the usual items for the auction. Then he stated that, per a new state law, there would be no such thing as a ‘disputed sale.’ He said once an item was declared sold by the auctioneer it was a final sale. On occasions at auctions, we have all seen the auctioneer reopen the bidding between two bidders to settle a dispute. What is this new law? Do other states also have similar laws in effect? Only one auctioneer has announced this at the auctions I attend.

I recently gave a seminar in your section of the country during which I hit a familiar theme on this topic – the fantasy of “tie bids” and “disputed sales.” The infamous “tie bid” involving bidders in an auction is nothing but an imaginary creation conjured up long ago in some auctioneer’s imagination and passed through the generations to just about every other auctioneer in the country – or at least it seems to me that many of them have followed the “rule” at one time or another.

This “rule” that, after making a sale, an auctioneer has the right to reopen the bidding to two or more bidders who each think they have the highest bid for a lot is no rule at all. Instead, it is a violation of both contract law and the Uniform Commercial Code (“UCC”).

Here is how the scenario usually takes form. The auctioneer is calling the bids and he takes a high bid for the lot and no other bid is made. The auctioneer sells the lot for the amount of the high bid. Immediately, two or more other bidders claim they each thought they had made the high bid. The auctioneer calls the situation a “bidders’ dispute” and opens the bidding. Sometimes this second round of bidding is limited to the bidders who are, according to the auctioneer, in “dispute.” The lot is then sold again to the highest bidder.

The problem is that this is not what the law governing sales allows. I often refer to what I call the “ABCs of auctions” – auctions are “all ‘bout contracts.” Every sale made in an auction is the subject of a contract. When an auctioneer makes a contract for sale with a bidder, this agreement to sell and buy is not some flimsy make-believe arrangement that can be set aside unilaterally by anyone. The contract for sale is a legally-binding agreement that vests rights and responsibilities in both the seller and the buyer and commits them to perform all of terms of the sale.

The first mistake that auctioneers make on this issue of a “bidders’ dispute” is to fail to understand the law that governs contract formation in an auction. When an auctioneer cries “sold” on a bidder’s high bid, the auctioneer is acting as an agent for the seller. The result is that a contract for sale is instantly formed between the seller and the buyer. This contract has legal force.

The second mistake these auctioneers make is to believe that they have some authority over a contract for sale. The auctioneer’s authority as an agent for the seller is to form the contract with the buyer. Once the contract has been formed, the auctioneer disappears from the selling equation. This is because the auctioneer is not a party to the contract. The parties to the contract for sale are the seller and the buyer. So how could an auctioneer set aside a contract to which he is not even a party? He cannot.

The law provides that a contract for sale will be formed when there is a meeting of the seller’s and buyer’s minds on the important terms of the contract and the parties evince an intention to contract. This meeting of the minds occurs when an auctioneer receives a bid from a high bidder and declares the subject lot to be sold to that bidder. When a second bidder “disputes” this sale on the basis she thought she had made the highest bid recognized by the auctioneer (or a ring person thought his bidder was in when the auctioneers were dealing with someone else), the answer to this “dispute” is simple and does not involve reopening bidding. The answer turns on the simple question – who did the auctioneer think he was selling the lot to when he knocked it down? If the answer is a bidder who also thought he was buying the lot, the requisite meeting of the minds has occurred between the seller (through the seller’s agent, the auctioneer) and the buyer and the contract for sale has been formed. It matters not that anyone else thought he or she was the buyer, because the auctioneer didn’t intend to sell to that bidder, so no meeting of the minds occurred and no contract for sale could be formed.

The UCC bluntly makes the same point: “A sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer so announces by the fall of the hammer or in other customary manner.” The word “complete” means … complete. It does not mean “maybe,” “could be,” “might be,” “what do you want it to be,” “think about it and then decide,” or anything other than … COMPLETE!
I don’t know if my seminar was the source of this “new law,” or whether a state board has issued a clarifying regulation on the point. It doesn’t matter. There is nothing new about the law. I just wish all auctioneers would learn and follow it in their sales. That would be a good thing no matter how it is accomplished.

Well that’s it for this week. So enjoy the auctions; enjoy your friends; enjoy your family; and enjoy your life ... it’s the only life you have.

FAREWELL

My hope to stay longer with the Kentucky Board of Auctioneers was dashed when the legislature failed to pass a bill to extend the state retirement window. As many other state employees, I will be retiring in December 2008.

In the fall of 2000, Barbara Schoen called me and said “Would you be interested in working here at the Board?” I thought long and hard. The responsibility scared me. Having been in state government for over 20 years, and then I am considering a transfer from a merit position to a non-merit position? And on top of that I had to sign an official paper accepting a demotion to transfer? This is all state-employee jargon, e.g. classifications, grades, but it was very daunting.

But dear Barbara said “You will really like the job, Janet – the licensees are the best and the Board Members are top-notch. You can do a good job for this Board.” I started my tenure with the Kentucky Board of Auctioneers on December 6, 2000. Barbara was correct; KBA is the best Board that I have ever been privileged to be associated with. As the years progressed and my fear of being fired at every monthly meeting lessened, I settled in and worked diligently for the Board. With the Board’s guidance and directives, I feel we have accomplished many things.

The Board has a working database that ensures that the transaction turn-around time is minimal, while ensuring an audit trail that is enviable. We have tried to keep you and the consumer more informed with our website. We have met governors’ directives to decrease expenses and maintained our services without raising fees. As predicted, it took five years to get the Recovery Fund back to the mandated minimum. But again the Board is faced with depleted funds and has taken active steps to reduce spending so that service is maintained through the next biennium.

I am proud to have participated in NALLOA, the National Auctioneer License Law Officials Association. The camaraderie of other states’ auctioneer licensing Directors has been invaluable. We all regulate licensed auctioneers. We exchange ideas. The Board is also active in a group that encompasses executive directors from all Kentucky ‘restricted fund’ agencies. A ‘restricted fund’ agency is an agency that is self-supporting and most are small agencies. We do not receive any TAX money from the state. We’ve surprised several Frankfort personnel who are invited to speak to our group about such things as budget, eTransparency project, etc. We are a united force.

I work with some wonderful people! Glenn Birdwhistell, Samuel Ray Godby, Steve Lewis, and Randy Bush are passionate about this profession. To detail what each means to me would take more paper than this Board can afford. They are hard working men. They want all auctioneers to be ethical and responsible. They all feel a responsibility to the consumer by trying to make the auctioneer better. This Board has a very good consumer member, Joe Walden. He has given the perspective of the consumer to the other board members and is realistic with his questions to the auctioneer and the complainant. I smile when I remember former employees: Board members - Bill Gibson, Clarence Yancey, Martha Kurtz-Williams and our attorney Bert VanArsdale. Larry Mahoney, Ray Herman and Marilynn Kennedy are the best support staff. To all of the auctioneers, apprentices, house operators, and their office personnel and family, thank you.

Every year I have included a list of deceased auctioneers. But many old-timers ‘just let go’ of their license. In my final newsletter, I am paying tribute to those current and former auctioneers who were or are licensed for forty years or more. Many were auctioneers before there was a Kentucky Auctioneer Licensing Law. As I was doing this task, I was in awe of the number of auctioneers and the years in a profession they love. To those on the list and still ‘standing on the block’, I wish you prosperity and continued years of chanting.

As to my future, I will not be idle. I compete Basset Hounds in AKC field trials. My three ‘old’ Field Trial Champions (Colonel, Belle, and Braxton Bragg) died within the last couple of years. The Colonel (pictured) won the National Basset Hound Club of America Field Trial in 2002. I have another young dog now – Janet’s Rbt E Lee. Bobby earned two blue ribbons this past spring and one was at the Spring National Field Trial. Not bad for a 1-year old hound. My 81-year young father and I will continue to travel and ‘run’ our hound dogs. I will spend more time with my father and brothers, with my daughter and her family, which includes my 2 adorable grandsons, and with my son and his wife and the prospect of more grandkids. And of course, my 83-year old aunt and I will have more shopping days.

May we all be blessed in our future endeavors. Janet McWilliams, Executive Director
